President of the Alumni Association, Indiana University School of Dentistry

The dental profession of Indiana is today celebrating, by this dedicatory service, the fiftieth anniversary of the organization of Indiana Dental College, which was conceived and established by members of the Indiana State Dental Association in 1879.

Too much praise could not be given to those pioneers of dentistry for their loyal and self-sacrificing service to the school and their profession.

When, in 1925, the school, by act of the General Assembly, became a department of Indiana University, the President and Trustees of that institution accepted their obligation in the same spirit that had actuated the founders.

The present beautiful structure which is dedicated tonight to the cause of human betterment is the outcome of their wise and courageous determination, and to them is due a great debt of gratitude from the people of Indiana and the dental profession as a whole.
The new School of Dentistry Building in the Medical Center of Indiana University was occupied for the opening of the first semester on September 18, 1933, and was dedicated on January 8, 1934.

The building is 220 feet long by 65 feet wide, three stories with service basement, and constructed of Indiana limestone. The main clinic has a capacity of 80 chairs; the children's clinic, 18 chairs; and the surgery, prosthetic, and crown and bridge clinics, 22 chairs.

All science and technic laboratories as well as lecture and research rooms are included in this building, making a complete dental teaching unit.

The New Children’s Clinic. In May, 1936, through the good offices of Colonel Clinton T. Messner, chief dental surgeon of the United States Public Health Service and an alumnus of this School, an agreement was entered into by the federal government and the University whereby certain research programs were to be undertaken by the Dental School in relation to the problems confronting the public and the profession in the care of children’s teeth; the effect of malnutrition; growth and development of the facial bones and teeth; nutritional effects; prevention of malocclusions and orthodontia.

In accordance with this agreement and under the direct supervision of Colonel Messner, the Children’s Clinic, space for which had been provided in the original plans for the new building, was completely equipped with fifteen Junior Ritter Chairs and Units, making it one of the most modern and well-equipped clinics in existence. Suitable research laboratories in connection with the Children’s Clinic have also been provided.

This was almost the last official act of Colonel Messner, who had done so much for his profession. He died on May 25, 1936.

This division of the School is under supervision of Dean Henshaw as director with Dr. Drexell Boyd as assistant.

All orthodontia cases accepted in the Riley Hospital are now cared for in the Children’s Clinic.

The Alumni Bulletin

With this issue the Alumni Bulletin of Indiana University School of Dentistry makes its bow to the Alumni of the School. It is to be issued quarterly by your Alma Mater for the purpose of acquainting the Alumni with the activities of the School. It has long been felt that there was a distinct need for an informative medium of some kind but up to now it has not been possible to undertake a publication of any kind.

The school believes that, every ethical alumnus has, or should have, an interest in dental education in Indiana, and that he has a right to know, and should be kept informed, in a clear and concise manner as to the activities of the school which has graduated him, and which he supports.

It is not the desire to create another dental journal or dental bulletin. Only items concerning the School and its activities will be found in the columns of the Alumni Bulletin. This, we think, will afford the opportunity of releasing items of interest that otherwise would pass unnoticed.

Dr. John L. Wilson was elected by the Faculty to serve as Editor-in-Chief of the Bulletin. With his knowledge of the things that have transpired in dental education it

A Message from the Alumni Association President

The casket business is always thriving. Many of us dentists are just marking time in our vault-like offices until one of the family orders one of the above mentioned boxes for Father, and the sooner we arouse ourselves to the changes in our profession the longer the purchase of the box will be postponed.

We, the Alumni of Indiana University School of Dentistry, are not alive to the benefits to be derived by closer and more frequent contacts with the School. Hardly a week passes but what some perplexing problem in your practice needs solving. Go to your School and the members of the Faculty will make every effort to be of assistance to you. They will do it gladly too for they are up to their ears in Dentistry and want to see our profession prosper. Better still, take advantage of one or all of the post graduate courses offered. It is like a "shock in the arm" and the tonic will last. A week or two spent on one subject is the way to ship your problem and get lasting results. Let me explain. Since 1919 I had been using block anesthesia with indifferent results. I had taken several courses and was still having trouble with some of the injections. Our late Dean Henshaw urged me to take the free course offered by the School. I enjoyed every minute of it and that week solved 95% of my troubles, besides leaving many other bits of information of real value.

Use your School as a check up on new theories, new gadgets or new materials before you invest your money or ruin your practice.

You are the Alumni of a real School and the sooner you firmly believe that, you will be surpised what it will do for your confidence and your practice.

We are beginning to think about the plans for the annual meeting which will be held on January 9, 1936. We hope to have it bigger and better than ever. Plan now to help make it so.

Refresher Courses Are Conducted in Child Dentistry

On July 18-29, 1938 the first refresher course in Children's Dentistry was given at the School under the auspices of the Bureau of Maternal Welfare and Child Health of the Indiana State Board of Health. Since that time the second two-weeks course has been given and as this issue of the Bulletin goes to press the third course is in progress.

Two years ago Dr. H. B. Mettel of Indianapolis was appointed the Director of the Bureau of Maternal Welfare and Child Health, he immediately manifested his interest in dentistry for the children of Indiana. He, together with Dr. Mary Westfall, who was appointed Director of the Dental Division of the Bureau, have worked unceasingly, blazing new paths in the field of Public Health Dentistry.

Through their efforts the mobile dental clinic was built and put in operation. This unit, under the direction of Dr. E. L. Pedersen, ’36, has been serving to do dentistry for children who otherwise would be unable to have such service.

The unit was first placed in service in the territory governed by the Indiana County Dental Society.
